LATEST NOVELTY OF SCIENCE

Leguminotherapy Tells the Exact Relations of Each Vegetable to Human System.

Leguminotherapy is the latest scientific novelty. It is a big name for vegetable diet—not, however, the ordinary vegetable diet, but, according to the National Pharmacist, a scientific diet whereby the exact physiological and temperamental relations of each vegetable to the human system are carefully determined.

Green peas, for example, according to this new science, cause frivolity, and should be withheld from young ladies with a tendency to flirt. On the other hand, they are excellent for wallflowers and pessimists, and should be given in generous helpings to bashful boys.

Carrots develop good temper and amiability, and are particularly recommended for janitors, car conductors and ticket agents.

The potato develops reason as well as calmness and reflection; but care must be taken lest it induce apathy and indifference or that disinclination to work which is observable among boys who are fed daily on fried potatoes.

String beans stimulate the poetic and artistic faculties; while cabbage and cauliflower, nourishing though they are, excite to obstreperousness and are therefore to be shunned by those in training for the parlor.—New York Sun.

THE BURDEN OF WEALTH

Haystack Ike—How wud yer like ter be a millionaire?

Sleepy Bill—Dat wouldn't be in my line. De feller wot's got so much money dat he needn't work is de one dat does de most.

CITIES IN DISPUTE.

In Manhattan there is an electric light for each inhabitant of the city, but, taking the city as a whole, this average would be considerably reduced, as, for instance, the borough of Brooklyn has but 1,000. The other boroughs which go to make up the city would show a lower figure. Some of the other cities of this country may have a percentage almost, if not, as great. In Denver, for instance, the use of electric signs and lights for illuminating and decorative purposes has become so general that some of its business men are advertising it as the Electric City. One building in that city is outlined outside with 72,000 candle power.

FILLING THE WASTE PLACES.

Some people worry over the possible depletion of forests and mines, an exhaustion so absolute that they fear that the world in A. D. 2212 will have neither coal, gold, iron nor wood. But coal came for fuel ages before the expected disappearance of the forests, and cement and steel came to the service of builders. As flax has largely given way to cotton, so rice and other cereals could replace wheat. When coal and iron began to fail men will long have been employing the heat of the sun for warming their homes and water for generating power and electricity for manufacturing and propulsion.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

IRRESISTIBLE.

A New York broker was praising, apropos of his probable return to Wall street, Charles W. Morse's ability as a money raiser.

"They tell a story about Morse," he chuckled. "Morse went to a millionaire one day and said: 'Lend me three million. I must have three million for that new deal of mine.'"

"Sorry, Morse," said the millionaire, "but I've only got two million in ready money today."

"Is that all?" said Morse. "Well, hand it over then—you can owe me the other million."

Weak, Cold Spells.

Wilmington, N. C.—Mrs. Cora L. Ritter, of this place, says: "I used to have head-cold, and blind dizzy spells, and weak cold spells went all over me. I had different doctors, but they were unable to tell me what was wrong, so I began to take Cardui. I am now all right, in good health, and better than I have been for 10 years." Cardui is a remedy for women, which has been helping sick women for nearly a life time.

You can absolutely rely upon it. Other people have done the testing and you should profit by their experience. Cardui has benefited a million women. Why not you? Begin taking Cardui today.

HUDSON WAS WHALING PORT

Finding of Rusty Old Anchors and Harpoon Heads Recalls Some Forgotten History.

Steam dredgers near the city of Hudson sometimes bring up rusty old anchors and harpoon heads from the depths of the river ooze, relics of the days when the place was a famous whaling station, with ships in every sea haunted by the great mammals. In 1782 an association of seafaring men from Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard and Providence, R. I., bought the little settlement with a view to reviving the whaling industry, almost totally destroyed during the revolution. At that time the shipping of Hudson was confined to one canoe used as a ferry. In 1784 a shipyard was opened, and vessels were built, purchased and fitted out. The first Hudson-built ship was launched in 1785, and a year later 25 big whalers were afloat. In 1797 a Hudson whaler, the American Hero, brought home the biggest cargo of sperm oil ever landed in this country, and in 1800 Hudson ranked third in the state in commerce and was known in every seaport in the world. In 1815, however, she ceased to be a port of entry, and her maritime interests dwindled and ceased altogether in 1845, when her last ship, the Martha, was sold and the odor of whale oil was wafted away forever from her wharves.

KEEPING COOL IN KITCHEN

Files Must Be Kept Out, Fresh Air Admitted, Room Cleaned and Painted.

Keep cool in your kitchen this summer. It need not be necessary for any housewife to bake and broil and stew away in a hot kitchen if she will only plan a little. And the time to begin planning is now. Keeping cool is largely a matter of psychology. A dirty, disorderly kitchen with flies buzzing about its smoke-grimed ceiling will seem ten degrees hotter than a kitchen kept cool and straight, even if the thermometers in the two rooms register the same.

Begin, then, with keeping out the flies. See that the window screens are in good condition; and screen in the back porch. If there are not enough windows in the kitchen to give good cross ventilation, have another one cut. You can't expect to be comfortable in the summer time without an abundance of fresh air.

If the kitchen walls are dark and discolored with the winter's smoke, have them cleaned and painted with a waterproof paint. This is better than wall paper, since it can be washed when soiled. Choose a soft, restful color, as blues, grays or greens, which are cool and pretty.—Kansas Industrialist.

THE AMERICAN RUSH.

The American host had given a reception for the distinguished foreigner.

Suddenly the advancing line broke and in a moment the room was empty.

"Wh—what is wrong?" stammered the guest.

"Why, nothing," replied the host. "Then why do they all run out?"

"The refreshment room doors have just been opened," replied the host.

Whereupon the amazed foreigner made a note of it.

FAME.

"Our ancestors came over in the Mayflower."

"That's nothing. I have relatives still living who have been offered big money to go into vaudeville."

MISS CASH.

Hewitt—He married a girl with money in her own name.

Jewitt—Is that so?

Hewitt—Yes; her name was Cash.

IT'S AN UNSINKABLE LIFEBOAT

This Claim Is Made by a Norwegian Sailor, Who Says He Has Made Trials.

Capt. Ole Brude of Seattle, the intrepid Norwegian sailor who in 1905 crossed the Atlantic in the Uraed, an odd looking egg-shaped lifeboat, 18 feet long, is planning an interesting experiment on the Pacific.

Captain Brude has asked permission of several of the trans-Pacific steamship lines to be put adrift in his lifeboat from the deck of one of the liners in mid-ocean, asserting that he would forfeit a good sized sum of money if he was not back in Seattle in six months.

"To demonstrate that my lifeboat could weather the biggest gales, ride the heaviest seas and safely carry her passengers into port, with three companions, I set out from Norway August 17, 1905, bound for America," said Captain Brude. "It was a rough voyage, during which we encountered several storms, but we reached Boston safely in January, 1906, our only power being a lone sail fastened to an iron mast."

Captain Brude said that his craft had provisions for a year and there was plenty in the larder when they reached the Massachusetts coast.

"I wish to demonstrate to the shipping men of the Pacific that my lifeboat will not sink or capsize in the heaviest weather, and is the safest used on the seven seas," said Captain Brude. "She can be made to carry 40 passengers and provisions for three months. Fifty-five of the crew and all the passengers of the Titanic and easily reached New York harbor with them."

NOT FUSSY

The Lady—No; I tell you I object to giving money at the door.

The Tramp—Well, marm, perhaps you'll hand it out of the window. I'm not pertikler.

MISTAKEN KINDNESS.

Under the head "A Friend's Mistaken Kindness" the Salem News says that a resident of that place, knowing Doctor Fanning to be a lover of birds and a student of ornithology, called at his office and left for delivery to the doctor a box containing a collection of 25 birds, mostly migratory, which had been trapped recently with a view to presenting them to one who was interested in the feathered tribe. It was a kindness "gone wrong," according to the record of the case, for, "like all true lovers of wild life, he could not bear to see the creatures in confinement, and after taking a good look at them released every one, and all flew away, evidently happy at regaining their liberty."

A DIFFERENCE.

George Ade, at a dinner in New York, urged a subtler use of words. "Use words with delicate care," he said. "Observe all their subtle distinctions. Never write 'vision,' for instance, 'when 'sight' is what you mean."

"There's no difference between 'sight' and 'vision,'" interrupted an editor.

"No?" said Mr. Ade. "And yet, 'Billy,' when you and I passed each other on Broadway yesterday afternoon, the girl I was with was a vision, while the one with you was a sight."

JUST LIKE WOMEN.

"It's a curious life," said the lawyer, wearily.

"What's the trouble?"

"Two women came into my office today. One wanted a divorce because her husband wouldn't stay at home and the other because her husband sat around the house all the time."

STUPIDITY OF THE AFRICANS

Henry M. Stanley Told of Meeting Natives With What Might Be Called Empty Heads.

The natives of Central Africa are described by the late Sir Henry M. Stanley in his "Autobiography" as being incredibly stupid. He tells, for example, of one native who, with another man, was sent in a canoe across a river to fetch a company of men to camp. After waiting an hour, Stanley went to the river, where he found the two paddling each in an opposite direction, and blaming the other for his stupidity. They were in a passion of excitement, and quite unable to hear the advice of the men across the river, who were bawling directions to them how to manage their canoe.

Another stupid fellow was generally saved from punishment because his mistakes were so absurd. One day we were floating down the Congo. Near camping time, as he happened to be bowman, I bade him stand by, and when I called out, seize the grass on the bank to stop the boat. In a little while we came to a fit place, and I cried, "Hold hard, Kirango!"

"Please God, master," he replied, and forthwith sprang on shore and seized the grass with both hands, while we, of course, were rapidly swept on down-stream.

The boat's crew roared at the ridiculous sight. Nevertheless, his stupidity cost the tired men a hard pull upriver, for not every place was available for a camp.—Youth's Companion.

LOOKS DOWN ON HIS MOTHER

Daughter-in-Law Nearly Always Thinks She Could Have Brought Up Son Better.

In Harper's Bazar Marion Harland writes some startling things about the "Immolation of Mothers."

For example, she says: "He was a bitter cynic who said that parents would seem to spend the best part of their lives and their finest energies in teaching their offspring how to get along without them. He hit the bull's-eye squarely, as far as sons are concerned. Mothers have labored, and daughters-in-law enter into their labors. Have you ever known a son's wife who did not, in the depths of her soul, believe that she could have trained her husband better than his mother succeeded in doing? It is not enough that he is all hers now, to have and to mold. She laments that she could not have had the bringing-up of her lord. What a man she would have made of him had high heaven granted her the privilege of being both mother and wife!"

She gives practical proof of the greed for full and absolute possession by taking all her John does for her, be it the gift of half his kingdom, as her right. What he does for his mother is all of free grace, and usually the grace is on her part."

TELLING ALL IN ONE BREATH.

This is a gem of English description dug out of an English newspaper by Richard V. Oulahan, the chief foreign correspondent of the New York Sun:

"Just as the sun rose to flood England with glorious, life-giving light, giving cheer to thousands of workers who rose in the cold, gray dawn, James Hackett—forty-two—a laborer, for the murder of his wife, Jane Hackett—forty-three—a barmaid at the Rose and Crown, on the twenty-second of last month, under particularly distressing circumstances—to wit, in which the unfortunate woman was strangled by her drunken husband—paid the extreme penalty for his crime, namely—death."—Saturday Evening Post.

SHORT ALL AROUND.

"Madam, they say that your husband is short in his accounts at the office."

"I don't doubt it; he is short in his accounts at home."

"How is that?"

"He used to kiss me three times a day, and now he never kisses me more than twice and sometimes not more than once."

A DIFFERENCE.

"Father," said Johnny, "what is the difference between farming and agriculture?"

"Well, my son, for farming you need a plow and harrow and other implements and for agriculture all you need is pencil and paper."
